New Beverly Hills Crosswalks Remind Drivers and Pedestrians to Pay Attention

Beverly Hills – The City of Beverly Hills has recently painted high visibility crosswalks near all Beverly Hills public schools to remind drivers that pedestrians have the right of way. Prior to every school year, the City refreshes the crosswalks with new paint. This year, “continental bars” were added to enhance the crosswalks adjacent to the schools. These painted lines run parallel to the path of travel and provide improved visibility, because motorists are able to see them from further away.
